Meet Alex,
The Leukodystrophy Charity
(Alex TLC)

“Alex TLC was a lifeline immediately before and after diagnosis”
How we support people with a leukodystrophy

Alex TLC is a trusted lifeline for patients and families facing leukodystrophy, and an information source for the medical professionals supporting and treating them.

We can help through providing:

Information
We can help people learn more about their condition, symptoms, services and treatments.

One to one support
We want everyone to be able to access the help they need to cope with their condition. Our support is accessible online, by email, phone, or via home visits.

Peer support
The ‘Alex TLC family’ is a vital source of comfort and knowledge which helps to reduce the isolation people with a rare disorder may feel.

Grant programmes
Means tested grants can provide access to care, equipment or therapy not available through statutory services, including support during Bone Marrow Transplant or Gene Therapy.

Events
Events like our Community Weekend Conference help to raise awareness of leukodystrophies and make information and support more accessible. We bring together patients, families, doctors and scientists to share experiences.

Campaigns
We support research initiatives that help improve best practice in prevention, early diagnosis and treatment of leukodystrophies.

Research
We promote medical research by constantly evaluating the specific needs of the leukodystrophy community. Sharing our findings ensures this research has optimal impact for patients.

Professional partnerships
Working with the NHS, medical specialists, universities and pharmaceutical companies broadens our access to resources and the funding and research that underpins our work.

As a charity we can’t provide any of this support without your help.

£25 can fund two hours of telephone support for someone with nowhere else to turn

£1,000 could deliver 121 support to a family during their first year following diagnosis
